Description

A rare and exceptional partners' desk by Charles Andrea Nosotti, dating to circa 1840, executed to an outstanding standard and of the finest quality. Constructed in richly figured plum-pudding mahogany, the desk is beautifully finished on both sides and features superbly crafted mahogany-lined drawers. The writing surface is fitted with a black tooled and gilded leather skiver, providing an elegant contrast to the warm, highly figured mahogany. A particularly impressive and desirable piece of nineteenth-century furniture, this desk demonstrates the exceptional craftsmanship and attention to detail associated with the finest makers of the period. A rare opportunity to acquire a distinguished and highly decorative antique partners' desk, suitable for both a private collection and an exceptional period interior.
