Description

A charming antique English oak side table, dating from the early 20th century, circa 1900–1920. This elegant little table features a rectangular solid oak top with a gently moulded edge, supported by four attractive barley twist legs – one of the most recognisable decorative features of late Victorian and Edwardian furniture. The legs are joined by simple stretchers, giving the table a well-balanced and distinctive appearance while providing additional stability. Ideal as a side table, lamp table, occasional table, bedside table or small display table. Good antique condition overall. The table is presented with its natural aged character and patina, including minor surface marks, scratches and variations in colour consistent with age and previous use.
