Description

This is a great looking 19th century French oval dining table. The base is made from oak and the top looks to be a type of fruitwood. Whats nice about this table is its size. Great depth offering plenty of space for sitters to dine. The top has a wonderful tactile patina and overall condition is good. No structural issues, minor splits between the planks of the top and of course the obvious lack of drawer. Within the price we can put a piece of timber in to hide the whole or for a small additional cost we can look to put in a sympathetically matched drawer. Just let us know what you would prefer.
