Description

A very attractive pair of Victorian carved walnut side chairs dating to circa 1860. Beautifully crafted in walnut, the chairs have elegant shaped frames with decorative pierced and carved backs featuring scrolling foliate detail and a central floral motif. The generously proportioned upholstered seats are raised on graceful cabriole legs with carved knees and scroll feet, retaining their small castors. A wonderfully versatile pair, these chairs would work beautifully as bedroom or dressing room chairs, occasional chairs in a sitting room, either side of a console or fireplace, in a hallway or entrance hall, or as elegant additional seating in a bedroom or guest room. They could equally be separated and used individually in different areas of the home. The chairs are currently upholstered in an attractive coral-pink patterned fabric finished with decorative braid. The existing upholstery remains presentable and can certainly be enjoyed as it is. We are also able to offer a professional reupholstery service at very reasonable prices, allowing the chairs to be completely personalised to suit your interior. Customers may choose from the extensive fabric collections available ...
