Description

Antique 20th century harlequin set of ten barley twist dining chairs in oak, an impressive and highly desirable collection consisting of eight single chairs and two carvers. Formed from a set of six and a set of four, the chairs complement one another beautifully, creating a characterful harlequin set ideal for surrounding a large dining table. Each chair features a beautifully carved upper section with highly detailed decoration, giving the set plenty of traditional character and visual appeal. The removable drop-in seats are upholstered in an attractive striped fabric, while the chairs stand on classic barley twist legs united by supporting stretchers. The two carvers provide comfortable armchairs for the heads of the table and complete the arrangement perfectly. The oak displays gorgeous natural grain and a rich, warm colour throughout, beautifully complementing the carved detailing and distinctive barley twist supports. The subtle differences between the two sets add to their charm, while their similar design allows them to sit together naturally as one impressive dining suite. Presented in good condition, all ten chairs have solid frames with no unwanted movement, ...
