Description

DESCRIPTION An attractive 19th century bow front hanging corner cupboard, with richly decorated black Japanned finish in the chinoiserie taste. The pair of doors are decorated in gilt and coloured pigments with an elaborate landscape of figures, buildings, flowering plants and birds, enclosed within gilt borders. Further gilt decoration continues around the sides and upper edge, while the curved bow front gives the cupboard a particularly elegant profile. The doors open to reveal a fitted shelved interior, providing useful storage while retaining relatively compact proportions. A highly decorative piece of 19th century furniture, particularly effective against a plain wall and well suited to both traditional and more eclectic interiors. DIMENSIONS Height: 92cm Width: 58cm Depth: 38cm CONDITION In good overall antique condition, with minor rubbing, marks and losses to the decorated surface commensurate with age and use. There is a small amount of localised historic woodworm. The cupboard retains its lock, although there is no key. Overall, it presents well and the age-related wear complements its decorative character. As an antique or vintage piece, signs of age and...
