Description

A practical early 20th-century adjustable pine reading table or lectern. The top can be raised, lowered, or tilted as required and includes a shaped book lip to secure books when angled. Unpretentious and functional, this is a piece designed for use rather than display alone. Suitable as a reading stand, sheet-music table, or informal occasional table, with a slightly rustic character typical of utilitarian pine furniture of the period. Condition Report In excellent antique condition with marks consistent with age and use. Slightly rustic in places, but solid, stable, and fully functional. The photographs form part of the condition report, so please review them carefully. Further images or a video viewing can be provided on request.
