Description

A late 19th-century Japanese Meiji-period bronze vase of lobed baluster form, decorated in high relief with sparrows perched among branches. The vase has a high-waisted, handled neck raised on a domed pedestal base, with the decoration extending across the body. Condition Report In excellent antique "as found" condition. The vase has received a light dust only rather than a full polish. A few minor marks are present. The surface could be polished further according to preference. The photographs form part of the condition report, so please review them carefully. Further images or a video viewing can be provided on request. Viewings are welcome at our Southampton unit, strictly by appointment. If you have any questions regarding this piece, please don't hesitate to get in touch.
