Description

Antique 20th century Edwardian envelope card table in mahogany, an elegant and cleverly designed piece combining traditional styling with excellent functionality. Very well made and of good quality, this attractive table is ideal for entertaining while remaining a decorative piece when not in use. The distinctive envelope top opens out to reveal a green felt-lined playing surface with four individual playing stations, creating a practical space for cards and games. Beneath is a single useful drawer fitted with decorative brass handles, while beautiful crossbanding to both the drawer front and top adds further detail to the design. Raised on tapered legs fitted with castors, the table has a graceful and well-balanced appearance while remaining easy to reposition when required. The mahogany displays gorgeous natural grain and a rich, warm colour throughout, beautifully complementing the crossbanded decoration. Presented in good condition, this very desirable Edwardian envelope card table would make a perfect addition to any home.
