Description

A fine late 18th-century George III mahogany chest of drawers of elegant form and superb quality. The well-figured rectangular top with a moulded edge sits above two short and three long graduated drawers all fitted with original brass swan-neck handles and brass escutcheons. Each drawer is oak-lined with hand-cut dovetail joints indicative of fine Georgian craftsmanship. The chest stands on shaped bracket feet and retains a beautifully rich colour and lustrous patina developed over more than two centuries. Wood: Mahogany with oak drawer linings Condition: Excellent antique condition. The drawers run smoothly; minor surface marks and wear consistent with age and use. Dimensions: Height 84 cm (33 in) Width 95 cm (37.4 in) Depth 58.5 cm (23 in) A classic example of late Georgian cabinetry — restrained, functional, and beautifully balanced — ideal for a traditional bedroom, hallway, or refined interior setting. Date: 1790 Period: George III
