Description

A striking Burmese carved gong, richly ornamented and full of character, in excellent antique condition, complete with its padded-head carved striker. The stand is profusely carved in deep relief, featuring flowing foliage, mythical creatures, and a central figure framed within an arch of leaves — all hallmarks of traditional Burmese craftsmanship. The gong itself hangs from original chains, its darkened surface showing the mottled patina of age and use. A wonderful example of 19th–early 20th century Burmese carving — sculptural, symbolic, and increasingly scarce in such complete and untouched condition.
