Description

19th century Rosewood Vanity Box. Untouched and unmolested Vanity Box of rectangular shape in Rosewood with a vacant plaque to the lid, twin circular brass escutcheons and flush mounted brass carry handles. The interior of the Vanity Box lined in luscious red velvet with a ruched inner lid with a secret rear compartment containing a free standing mirror and storage for envelopes. The Vanity Box houses ten cut glass jars with engine turned lids including some with beautiful pierced silver designs. An under-tray storage compartment with a removable tray provides more storage space for the tool pad as well as the five jars. At the front of the box is a lockable drawer with a velvet-lined interior that is suitable for safely storing precious jewellery. The Vanity Box dates to the late Georgian period during the reign of William IV dated 1837. Dimensions 18cm High x 30cm Wide x 22cm Deep
