Description

A very fine and impressive 19th Century giltwood mirror of exceptional size, quality and grand proportions. Crammed full of carved, moulded and fluted giltwood classical elements (see images) With elegant lines the top frame features a central fluted panel with floral cartouches and side scroll detail. A central swag hangs either edge of the mirror glass on the top section and two further floral and bud drops feature at the sides. Supported on shaped platform base with a further decorative arrangement of scrolling acanthus leaves to the sides, all in high relief. This mirror would suit either a classical masculine interior or a feminine and romantic one making it a most useful addition to most interior schemes. The mirror glass itself is also antique , giving a delightful set but clear selection with very minor foxing and wear mentioned for accuracy only. The frame itself refinished sympathetically in an antique gilt painted finish Measures: 150cm high x 148cm wide
