Description

A superb Georgian period walnut bureau of elegant proportions, displaying exceptionally beautiful figuring and a wonderfully rich, warm colour throughout. The fall-front features striking, carefully matched walnut veneers, whose flowing grain patterns give the piece a particularly decorative and distinctive appearance. When lowered, the front opens to reveal a fitted interior comprising pigeonholes, small drawers and a central cupboard, providing excellent practical storage for letters, stationery and personal items. The writing surface is inset with an attractive red leather skiver, creating a handsome contrast with the rich walnut. The fall-front is supported by its pull-out lopers and is fitted with a working lock. A key is also included, allowing the bureau to be securely closed. Below are four spacious graduated drawers, each fitted with decorative brass swing handles and shaped brass escutcheons. The drawers retain their traditional hand-cut dovetail construction and provide a generous amount of useful storage. The bureau stands on classic shaped bracket feet, which complement its well-balanced Georgian form. The solid oak side panels are an especially attractiv...
