Description

A fine Georgian mahogany bookcase in excellent antique condition, crafted in rich, well-figured mahogany. It separates into two sections for easy moving and positioning. The upper section has a pair of lockable doors with beautifully made brass grills in a diamond pattern — a classic Georgian feature — and fully adjustable shelves inside for books or decorative pieces. The lower cupboard offers additional enclosed storage behind two solid mahogany doors, with a clean and practical interior. The bookcase stands well, with balanced late-Georgian lines, a rich consistent colour, and crisp mouldings that highlight the quality of the timber. A handsome and versatile piece, ideal for a study, library, or sitting room, and an excellent example of Georgian cabinetry combining elegance, practicality, and timeless appeal.
