Description

This impressive old pine double wardrobe dates to around 1880 and remains in excellent order for a piece of its age. A broad cornice crowns the two panelled doors, with gently shaped sides and bracket feet giving it a handsome, substantial presence. Two strong drawers sit beneath the cupboard and both run freely. The interior is empty at present, although there are signs it previously held shelving. A new hanging rail will be fitted within the advertised price. For buyers who would like extra storage, we can also add a shelf above the rail for around £40. Original period details include the left-hand catch and a substantial box lock, supplied with its original key; both are working correctly. The wardrobe dismantles for access, making it suitable for most stairways. We can deliver personally to much of the UK and reassemble it on arrival. Reference: N1757F The current-condition price is £1,060. Alternatively, we can fully restore and wax the wardrobe for £1,190. Measurements: 79½ inches high, 72 inches wide and 25 inches deep, with an internal depth of 20½ inches. Width and depth are the maximum external measurements.
