Description

This practical antique pine compactum wardrobe is thought to be German and dates from the 1930s. It is a well-designed piece for a smaller bedroom, combining hanging space, shelving and drawers in one unit. Panelled sides and a flat top provide useful extra storage space. On the right, a full-height door opens to a hanging section with a 20-inch internal depth—ample room for coats, suits and everyday clothing. Three shelves are currently fitted, though the layout can be adapted to fit a hanging rail below the top shelf if preferred. On the left, a smaller mirrored door opens onto a shelved compartment. It has one shelf at present, with adjustable supports already in place for more. Four drawers beneath the mirrored door complete the storage. The mirror is clean and in good condition and may be original. The wardrobe dismantles for delivery. Its largest part is the main box section, so please ask if you need those measurements for access. Personal delivery and assembly are available across much of the UK. Reference: N1852H The current-condition price is £1,200. Alternatively, we can fully restore and wax the wardrobe for £1,350. Measurements: 78½ inches high, 53 inch...
