Description

Impressive of unusually large scale, these figures were manufactured in Derby, England c.1765. Both stags are recline upon naturalistic rock work and grass bases. Each is finely painted in slightly different subdued tones, with spotted highlights on their fur. They are at rest under the boughs of trees which are studded with finely worked and brightly coloured bocage foliage. A rare pair and each has survived in a remarkable state of conservation, with very minor 'nicks' Measuring: 20 x 18 x 6 cm
