Description

Antique 20th century small Edwardian cabinet in oak, a charming and compact piece with a simple traditional design and plenty of period character. Well made and of good quality, its smaller proportions make it particularly useful where space is limited. Standing on four square legs, the cabinet features a single door fitted with a knob handle, opening to reveal one internal shelf for useful storage. A small raised gallery to the top adds a subtle decorative feature and completes the Edwardian appearance. Gorgeous grain and colour can be seen throughout the oak, bringing warmth and character to the piece. Its practical size and understated styling make it a very desirable and versatile example. Offered in good condition, this lovely Edwardian cabinet is an appealing piece of period furniture that would sit beautifully within a wide variety of interiors. Product Reference : AF - 6329
