Description

THE MASSACRE OF THE INNOCENTS - 17TH CENTURY OIL ON CANVAS Large, impressive and atmospheric late 17th century oil on canvas 'The Massacre of the Innocents' This highly decorative work of a biblical narrative reflects the work of Jacopo Robusti (Tintoretto) some 100 years earlier as can be seen in this interpretation of his Mannerist composition. In art history, particularly during the Renaissance and Baroque eras, this subject was highly favored because it allowed artists to showcase extreme human emotion, complex anatomical configurations, and chaotic movement. Ready to hang in a carved, ebonized, and gilded wood and plaster frame.
