Description

An Edwardian beech desk chair by Thonet, the solid steam-bent top rail with an elevated central panel set over a dark hide backrest, above a circular padded leather seat flanked by broad armrests on sweeping bentwood supports, all raised on subtly flared legs united by a circular stretcher ring. Produced by Thonet and catalogued explicitly as a dedicated writing desk chair (Schreibstuhl), this Secessionist-era piece pairs beautifully with most standard writing tables, its low profile and short armrests engineered to pull up close to a desk edge while supporting the forearms. Very good antique condition with some surface wear consistent with age and use. Structurally sound, clean and ready to place. Austrian, circa 1910.
