Description

A fine quality Victorian mahogany chest of drawers by James Winter & Sons, circa 1860. Of compact proportions and beautifully figured mahogany, the chest is arranged as two short drawers over three graduated long drawers, all retaining their original reeded handles and locks. The drawers are well made and mahogany lined, with the maker's stamp present inside the top drawer. Finished with a moulded top, small raised upstand to the rear and a neat plinth base, this is a particularly attractive and well-crafted example of mid-19th-century English furniture.
