Description

A fine and charming late 17th century c.1670 - 1690 oil on canvas of a seated young girl with a lamb at her side. Landscape is painted in the background via a artists window. The painting is in good condition and ready to hang. It is contained within a late 17th century carved wood frame with original patination. The painting has been professionally re-lined in the past and has had a light clean and re-varnish some time ago. There are various labels verso, two of which are related to storage companies and has the last owners name mentioned. The frame is original and has a well worn patina, with the gilt finish being barely visible due to 300 years of wear. The finish still looks fine as seen, although could be brushed over lightly with a gilt wax cream to re-invigorate. MEASUREMENTS 34.5" x 29.5" including frame.
