Description

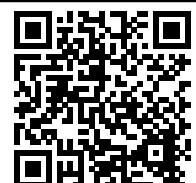

An interesting Edwardian finely cast plaster plaque depicting a gentleman holding a ladies hand in gesture. This item is very rarely seen today (1 of 2) Finished generously in real gold leaf, the detail is amazing with a lot of undercutting evident in the manufacturing process of the plaster. The scene is carefully presented under a convex glass set into a turned and black painted wooden frame. The backs being sealed with dark paper. The condition is very good and there is a loop of steel to enable wall hanging. Measurements are 12 Inches in Diameter x 2 Inches in Depth.
