Description

Impressive pair of hallmarked American 'Sterling' silver candlesticks. These candle sticks are marked Sterling, cement filled, reinforced with rod, 2503 and it has the Redlich Logo or Trade Mark. Redlich was bought out by Elgin Manufacturing Co. in 1895 but used their marks for some time after that. I believe these candle sticks are from the 1920's. The pair stand tall upon round bases with graduating pillars leading to round topped holders. Stamped sterling to the base they are cement filled and rod reinforced to ensure stability. Generally good condition with a very small split to the base of one and a little bruising to the base of the other. This is represented in the asking price, though does not detract from a super pair of candlesticks.
