Description

A superb quality Sheraton revival antique inlaid mahogany display cabinet. This regency type 19th century Edwardian sideboard side narrow cabinet is by the London makers Edwards and Roberts. The top is surmounted by an original gilt bronze gallery with a marquetry inlaid frieze and the more superior and desirable fiddle back mahogany. To the centre is a pair of cupboard doors with panels of inlay depicting musical instruments in boxwood, hawthorn and satinwood; above which is an open recess flanked by two astragal glazed doors with two interior glass shelves (not in the picture But present) and two drawers to either side. The whole is united by a display shelf and raised on tapered legs and spade feet. This piece of furniture has been restored by qualified and professional restorers to include re-lining and polishing and is ready to grace any home. This piece has the added benefit of not only having display space but cupboards and drawers to store items. Excellent condition. Measures 50" w x 55" h x 15" d. Circa 1895. PLEASE SEE OUR OWN WEBSITE FOR FURTHER EXAMPLES ON SALE.
