Description

A very detailed Victorian Oileograph on card and under glass, depicting a young 19th century working boy taking a rest on an old pine chest, and pondering whilst smoking a large well earn't cigar. Nicely complemented in an oak hand made frame of the period C1873, and finished with a gold leafed picture slip and protected under an original piece of early glass. MEASUREMENTS: Height: 19 Inches Width: 16 Inches The original picture was painted by artist J.G. Brown in 1873. The picture looks like a realistic oil painting, having grain and texture, and is in good condition. The smoke from the boy's cigar is very realistic and had me looking closer with a good magnifying glass to see if this picture was actually hand painted.
