Description

Regency Country Chair - Elm & Ash - c1820 A splendid example of a Regency period country chair - c1820. With simple efficient style including a broad overhanging top rail and a centre back-rail in the manner of a fisherman's line winder this chair offers classic country craftsmanship, practical configuration and sturdiness. Originating from England it is very much the type of chair that would have been the daily choice for a professional such as a School Master or Estate Manager. The style encourages correct posture and is very comfortable in use. This piece benefits from a gorgeous depth of colour and flowing grain throughout. It is in great order and is a strong and solid item of functional furniture. Beautiful as a feature chair or equally as an office desk seat or other regular use piece. Overall an excellent example and very desirable to add to any collection.
