Description

A wonderful Victorian perpetual calendar made from solid cast brass with a highly decorative front panel with an Art Nouveau design, typical for this late nineteenth century period. The day, date and month are moved by using the three knobs each side, all working, the linen rolls protected by a glass panel underneath the three apertures. Excellent condition (a couple of little dings on the back, mentioned purely for accuracy), with a footprint measuring 3 3/4" x 2 1/2" x 6 1/2" tall.
