SoldItem Reference: SA161667*Date of manufacture: 1900

Description

An unusual late Victorian/early 20thC ceiling light shaped like a basket of flowers held by twisted brass 'ropes' up to a ceiling fitting. The brass work and details are of exceptional quality, and the light comes with the original pinky/orange flower shaped glass shades. The woven basket is 30" (76cm) in length from the ceiling fitting to the base and approximately 21" (53cm) at the widest point across. Climbing up through the ropes are the original fabric pink roses with green leaves, the colours and roses are still fresh and intact. In 20 years of trading in lighting, we have never come across such an unusual, and finely made item. It was rewired for the UK market a few years ago. Delivery within easy reach of the M25 can be arranged.
