Description

A Scottish manufactured souvenir, this rolling Postal Ruler is a highly prized collectible. It would have been sold as a souvenir, this one featuring a scene in Torquay, on the Devon coast of England "Hesketh Crescent - Torquay". This postal ruler has all the rates printed of the late Victorian era and one end acts as a Perpetual Calendar, the black knob at the end being removable and would be moved once a month ... still usable today as a desk calendar. Quite often found in scruffy condition, this one is quite superb measuring 9 1/4" in length. Item ID: 34108 FREE Worldwide Registered Airmail Directly From London, England
