Description

An early 20thC pretty cherub wall light with an ornate slightly curved back plate, this has been rewired for the UK with a replacement petal shade added. The cable can be adjusted so the light is higher if preferred. The cherub measures 16cm (6.5") in length, and comes out at 19cm (7.5") when attached to the wall. The backplate is 19cm (7.5") in length and 7cm (2.75") at the widest part. There are two small moulding holes in the cherub from the original casting, at the back of the head and on the back as is usual with the old 'flying cherubs'.
