Description

A superb quality mahogany inlaid three piece bedroom suite, comprising of a single door wardrobe, a matching dressing table and a matching marble topped washstand. The wardrobe having a single bevelled mirrored door opening to reveal hooks and a brass hanging rail above a single oak lined drawer with brass ring turned handles, raised on splayed feet. The dressing table having a central bevelled mirror with small jewelry drawers above three oak lined graduating drawers, again raised on splayed feet. The marble topped wash stand having a galleried back above twin panelled mahogany doors opening to reveal an oak lined interior and having brass towel rails to each side. The suite having beautiful floral marquetry inlaid detail and chequer band cross banded detail. This suite is stunning quality throughout and was made by the high quality Edwardian Period furniture manufacturers Harris Lebus circa 1900-1910. Harris Lebus was a very large furniture manufacturer and wholesaler based in the East End of London in Tabernacle St with a factory in Tottenham. The firm supplied stores such as Maple and Co., mainly producing bedroom and dining cabinets. Harris Lebus was at one time a ho...
