Description

Quality Reading Stand - Leveson & Sons - c1880 A lovely Victorian mahogany & walnut reading stand by Leveson & Sons presented in superb condition. Leveson & Sons, with addresses in Knightsbridge, Mayfair, Manchester, Liverpool and Leeds, were active c.1870-1915 and specialized in quality mechanical furniture. This quality piece provides bi-directional tilt with generous height adjustment allowing the piece to be used either for reading/writing purposes when seated, or as a lectern when standing. The book-stop slip fits to either side of the reading surface. The heavily constructed central column features a robust dog tooth with cast iron catch. The banjo shaped base rides over original castors. It is in great order throughout and makes a very pleasing and versatile item of antique furniture. A stunning example and much in demand when of this quality, as determined by the £1625 realized for a near identical piece by Leveson & Sons at Christie's, London in March 2012 - see link for the full details of the sale http://www.christies.com/LotFinder/lot\_details.aspx?intObjectID=5540414 Please do not hesitate to contact us if you require further information - we are he...
