Description

A quite magnificent and rare example of a Victorian spoon warmer. The naturalistic base is in the form of rocks covered in all sorts of flowers and foliage. The front of the horn has a running Stag. Above this is where the spoon would have been placed for warming but what also makes this one rather special is that the warm water would be filled the other end of the horn. There is a screw removable cap which is also lucky enough to have an English design registration diamond allowing us to date it to September 3, 1880; a true Victorian example. The end of the horn retains the original decorative monogram created from three intertwined initials. The handle of the horn is created from carved Ebony. Apart from a few little dings and dimples commensurate with age, this stunner remains in excellent condition. The base measures 8" x 5" and the piece in total measuring 10" long to horn mouthpiece.
