Description

A stunning quality mahogany display cabinet by Maple & Co of London. The upper section having an arched, moulded and stepped cornice with a central marquetry inlaid floral garland. The twin central concave glazed doors open to reveal glass shelving, above twin panelled concave doors which have beautiful marquetry inlaid foliate garlands, enclosing a mahogany shelved interior. The glazed end doors with beautiful Gothic tracery glazing bars and stunning inlaid panels beneath. The whole supported on six elegant turned and leaf carved legs united by a concave shaped under tier circa 1900-1910. This cabinet was made by the renowned cabinet makers Maple & Co of London and as you would expect is stunning quality throughout. With a warehouse that was one of the "sites of London", Maple & Co was once the largest furniture retailer and manufacturer in the world, attracting visitors from near and far. The company was most prolific in the late Victorian and Edwardian era, specialising in fine quality Arts & Crafts Furniture, designed and produced in their own workshops. However, they continued producing fine quality furniture up until the 1980s Dimensions: 65.5" wide x 86" high x...
