Description

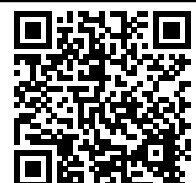

An impressive large magnifying glass the handle being made from English or Scottish Antler horn, comfortable and tactile to hold; and looks wonderful on the desk-top. The ferrule and tip are both made from sterling silver, hallmarked for Sheffield 1893, a true Victorian example; there is also an English registration lozenge on the silver terminal. The tip with its fluted design surrounds a circular cartouche on both sides which could be engraved by your silversmith should you wish to personalize. The nickel rimmed glass is of course new (by Hilkinson), making it perfect, most usable with a good magnification. A stunning desk-top accessory in excellent condition. Measures 11 1/2" in length with glass diameter of 5", a grand scale sure to impress. Item ID: 34681 FREE Worldwide Registered Airmail Directly From London, England
