Description

A fine quality early Victorian antique mahogany pedestal sideboard. This quality antique sideboard has a mahogany inverted breakfront serving top with a flame mahogany central drawer flanked by two shorter drawers to each pedestal all with mouldings to the top and bottom. Sitting over the top is a beautifully shaped back with ornately carved scrolls and foliage having an raised flame mahogany shaped panel and a fine quality decoratively carved central cartouche. Below each pedestal drawers are two hinged doors with decorative carvings and raised panels which open to reveal on the left side two pull out adjustable slides and on the right a cellarette draw. This antique mahogany sideboard raised on plinth bases dates to circa 1850 and is in very good condition with lovely colour which is ready for home use and retains its original key.
