Description

Farrer - Fine Monochromatic Portrait Pencil Drawing of Rembrandt with date 1669. On boards back "Rembrandts own picture done by Mr Farrer (then word cant be read) July 23 1745. A team from Harvard Medical School say the Dutch master Rembrandt may have had extropia - where one eye looks outwards. The scientists analysed his self-portraits and found one eye looked straight ahead, while the other looked outward. We believe taken from Rembrandts self portrait 1639 'Leaning on a Stone Mill' 10 x 9 cms
