Description

Fine early C19th Regency period mahogany twin-pillar dining table with 2 leaves on 3-splay bases with turned columns. The moulded-edge tops supported on well-turned pedestal columns with triple moulded sabre-legs terminating in original claw-footed brass castors. Has 1 extra original mahogany leaf + 1 additional well-matched period mahogany timber leaf extension, together with removable mahogany twin-support bearer/rails action, forming a flat and stable table of good larger proportions. The leaf options create a highly versatile dining table to comfortably seat up to 8 to 10 people, or can be reduced to a compact breakfast table size. The classic design offering comfortable seating with both good leg-room and height, for accommodating both chair and diner. Good original colour, finish and condition. Minor marks and stains to surface commensurate with age, use and purpose. Fitted with all original fork-type brass clips and sockets. Very elegant table of classic design with moulded legs and brass lions-claw castors. H 30" W 48" L 48" (+ 69" + 90" with leaves). Each pedestal top 21" deep. Each additional leaf 21" deep. England c.1820
