Description

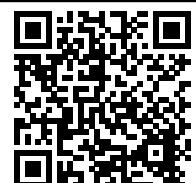

This is a very unusual and decorative ceiling light from around 1910-1940 with the original glass grapes and flowers fitted in a mesh attached to the brass framework. We have had it rewired for the UK market, and the old mesh has been replaced, but the glass grapes and flowers have been put back as they were originally. This is NOT a reproduction - We only sell original, period lighting. It has been difficult to photograph the glass work without it looking as if there are patches of clear light; this is not the case in reality. Photographs 3 and 4 show how the lighter glass flowers and grapes are filtering light. This light can be viewed if required. It measures approximately 60cm in width and 90 cm in length. Delivery within the M25 area can be arranged.
