Description

Wonderful and unusual to find a set of six all still together, these wonderful napkin rings date to around 1900, late Victorian or Edwardian in era. Each is made from a highly decorative piece of period Tortoiseshell with a good bright and glossy patina showcasing the decorative markings and colours ranging from golden champagne to rich chocolate brown. One with a minor chip (insignificant but mentioned and shown purely for accuracy), otherwise absolutely superb condition. Measuring 1 5/8" with a diameter measuring 1 5/8".
