Description

A beautiful and very elegant example of a late Victorian sterling silver bread fork, always very popular for serving all sorts of things, and particularly sought-after in sterling rather than silver plate. The handle is made by exotic Mother of Pearl or Nacre shell with a bright shiny patina highlighting its iridescent qualities. The handle is joined to the sterling form with a highly decorative ferrule. The fork is beautifully decorated. There is a full hallmark for Sheffield 1901 together with the makers initials FH for the silversmith, Francis Howard Ltd. Excellent condition, measuring 7 7/8" in length.
