Description

A lovely quality early 19th century mahogany WRITING or "CHAMBER" TABLE almost certainly by Gillows of Lancaster. The well-figured solid top, with its reeded edges and rounded corners, has a hinged section to the back, fitted for ink bottles; pens and writing implements etc., whilst to the frieze is a long mahogany-lined drawer, with its original turned handles, and typical "Gillows" moulded 'panelling' to the corners, side and back. It is supported on slender well-turned legs which terminate in the original high-quality brass castors. * An almost identical table is illustrated and fully described in "Gillows of Lancaster" (Volume I) by Susan Stuart.
