Description

Antique Pair Late 19th Century Mahogany Double Wardrobes and dating from around 1890. It is rare to find such a pair both of which are constructed from quality mahogany and have a cornice top above a moulded frieze and with two full length doors with fielded panels to the top above a long panel and with original brass handles. Internally, they both have to one side full hanging space with mahogany shoe box to the base (one has a lid the other is an open box). To the other side there are four mahogany sliding removeable trays above three mahogany drawers all of which are oak lined with original brass handles and they stand on a deep plinth base. Each wardrobe separates for ease of transporting. Each wardrobe measures: 81" high x 25" deep x internal depth 19" x 53" wide A Superb Pair of Quality Mahogany 19th Century Wardrobes in very good condition with a lovely deep colour and patination to the quality mahogany and oozing all the charm and character of the period. Our furniture is cleaned and polished using traditional waxing methods.
