Description

Most of these Dutch tobacco boxes are made with a simple engraved decoration to the lid, and when they are these more elaborate embossed examples they are so rubbed they are often no longer clear after 250 years of cleaning. This handsome example still has a clear quality embossed lid featuring a commemorative maritime scene surround by cherub or putti figures. I am yet to try and translate the writing to the top of the box. Made from a combination of brass and copper, the box dates to around 1770. 6 1/4" x 1 3/4" x 1 1/4" tall. Item ID: 34844
