Description

A fine quality burr elm 8 day duration longcase clock, by SE Davie of Troon circa 1850. Typical Western Scotland style case, with an applied swan-neck pediment and columns to the hood. The unusual case made from choice burr elm veneers, very striking appearance and exceptional quality cabinet work by Affleck of Ayr. The beautiful quality arched japanned dial, with "The lady of the lake" to the arch and finely painted corners depicting the continents. The 8 day duration movement striking the hours on a single bell. Finely fretted original polished brass hands. Matching oval iron weights and painted faced pendulum depicting a steamship at sea. A very good quality clock constructed of wonderfully figured timber complimented by a well executed painted dial. Price: £3,800
 Height: 7ft 6" Depth: 9.5" Width: 19.5"
