Description

Maurice Martin (1894-1978) - Neige Amiens. A wintry Street Scene - Oil On Canvas. This picture still has the label on back when it was exhibited at the Salon des Indépendants, annual exhibition of the Artists, held in Paris since 1884. A member of the Moret School of Painting at Moret sur Loing. Martin became a specialist in the open air or 'plain air' painting and the use of pure colour. Among the fine landscape painters, Maurice Martin is one of the most renowned in the world. He was a member of the board and commission of examiners at the Salon des Artistes and also Vice President of the Society of French Landscape Painters. His many landscape studies include Picardy, The Isle Of France, Brittany and Provence. He also painted in Spain, especially Grenada and Malaga. The Foundation Taylor, to which he belonged, has created a prize 'Maurice Martin' which is awarded every year during the 'Salon de Moret'. He is known as one of the four musketeers of Impressionism at the School of Moret sur Loing, next to Monet, Renoir and Pissarro. 81.3 x 73.7 cms
