Description

A highly decorative and unusual biscuit box or barrel, dating to around 1900. The heavy crystal is deeply cut, simple elegant lines with a star-cut base. What makes this piece rather unusual is the pierced or reticulated mounts to the shoulders of the glass. The silver plated lid is just as decorative. To complete this piece is the folding handle, which stands upright if desired, having a lovely knot tied in the centre. Minor wear to the silverplate at a few high spots, but in overall excellent condition. 5 1/4" square at the shoulders and standing 7 1/2" tall to the top of the handle while upright.
