Description

C19th William IV period rosewood canterbury. Stylish classically-inspired canterbury or magazine rack, after a design by J.C.Loudon as published in his work of 1833 "Encyclopaedia of Cottage, Farm and Villa Architecture and Furniture". John Claudius Loudon 1783-1843, was a Scottish-born landscape gardener and architect, and an arbiter of taste and design during this period. Single mahogany-lined drawer with knob handle, beneath stylised carved laurel-wreath centre-piece. Classically-inspired carved X-frame laurel wreath 3-division design, standing on turned legs with original gilded brass castors. In original condition throughout, good rich colour and patina to the beautifully figured rosewood. No splits, damage or repairs. W 20" H 20" D 15" England c.1835.
